PLAYING FOR A LIFE.

AN EPISODE IN A GAMBLER'S CAREER.

BY JOHN B. WILLIAMS, M. D.

[From the Family Journal.]

It is doubtless known to most of our readers that during the season in Baden-Baden, and other German watering places, gambling is carried on to a very great extent. Nearly all the visitors visit the saloon in the evening; indeed, it is par excellence the place of fashionable resort. Extraordinary characters are to be met there every day, and extraordinary scenes are of frequent occurrence. The incident I have to relate, and which occurred at Baden-Baden some few years ago, will go far towards proving the correctness of the adage that "truth is stranger than fiction," for in no work of imagination could be found anything more strange, bizarre, or more dramatic in its details.

the incidents to be described; and received the account of the rest from a re-

In 1841—the season at Baden-Baden as about half over, when there arrived a French count, named De Lacrosse, who was a confirmed gambler. The sole object, I, str ngo to say, he was generally a winner. He pretended to have a system of calculating chances, but whether this was so or not, he rarely left the table that he did not carry away a considerable amount of the banker's gold. This extraordinary success soon became the theme of conversation, and Count de Lacrosse was suddenly elevated into a hero.

About a week after the count's arrival another stranger appeared at Baden-Baden, whom no one knew personally, whose reputation had preceded him. His reputation had been acquired in various ways; first, on account of his fortune, which was said to be immense, secondly, on account of his exploits.

ous birth, a Poleander. His title was the Prince of Flockenberg. The extraordinary stories were told of him. One only will suffice to give our readers an idea of his eccentricity. He had never married, and for the following reason: His skill with the use of the pistol was so great that at any place he could kill a fly on the wall, and the first condition of his marriage was, that on the evening before the ceremony his affianced bride should allow him to fire at a rose which she was to hold between her lips. This would have required an immense amount of love for a young girl to agree to such a condition, and as the Prince of Flockenberg was not a man to induce any such tender passion, all ended when the time for their devotedness was to be tested arrived.

His excellency was, in fact, more than forty years of age; he was very old and extraordinarily thin. His long his long and hooked nose very much

His eyes were dazzlingly bright. He fought with him to Baden a long train of servants and carriages, and an immense sum of money, with which it was he intended to break the bank just to his own amusement.

The prince had hired in advance a house for himself and suite. He possessed of it, and for a while he lived in the most profound isolation, leaving it neither day nor night, but passing his whole time firing pistols in the garden attached to his dwelling.

Every day, at two o'clock in the afternoon, an open carriage, drawn by four horses, left the prince's house, and driven over the principal promenades of the place ; but this vehicle was reserved to the great disappointment of the curious, who could not comprehend why any one could visit a watering place and then shut himself up between walls.

It was the prize, however, which had attracted the crowd, who had imagined that the stranger would carry his eccentricity so far as to leave Baden without showing himself in public. Their surprise was very great when in the evening they saw the prize enter the gambling hall and appear at the roulette table.

SECESSION NEWS.

The New York Tribune now regards the secession of South Carolina as a fixed fact, and also admits the probability that two or three states, after a sharp internal struggle, will go with her. In view of this, it counsels submission and acquiescence on the part of the Union, in this final determination of national law and authority. It takes the ground that it is utterly contrary to the genius of our Government to compel membership in the Union by force of arms. It would not, it says, establish a precedent, but only establish a precedent of hostile dependencies. Hence the Tribune reiterates that there should be no fighting in any event; if they want to go let them; but it gives a gloomy picture of the economy of secession. It says the South, especially South Carolina, is poor, deeply in debt, and threatened with that bankruptcy which sooner or later overtakes every people who raise but one or two bulky staples, and run in debt for everything they eat, drink and wear. As to the policy of confining the slaves to agriculture and household service, and throwing manufactures open to white energy, it is now proposed, the Tribune thinks it would overthrow slavery in a generation or two. The Times, it says, cannot be reconsumed without an amendment of the Constitution. It hopes South Carolina will appeal for the amendment, because, although she may renounce the mails, induce her citizens to resign Federal offices, withdraw her members of Congress, declare herself out of the Union, and send ambassadors to Washington and elsewhere, all without warlike collision, the moment she disturbs the American flag on Fort Mifflin, hostilities must inevitably follow. The Times suggests, as to duties, however, that they may be paid under protest.

The World answers the three reasons of South Carolina for going out of the Union, as follows: 1st, that re-capture of fugitive slaves, difficult within, will be impossible without the Union; 2d, that the election of Mr. Lincoln is, per se, only an imaginary evil; 3d, that her slaves will be only the more decidedly excluded from the territories by her withdrawal and conversion of herself into a foreign power. In the event of her being joined by the Gulf States, the difficulties would be the same, and the World argues that the people of those states would never at any rate submit to the intolerable taxation necessary to keep alive a separate government; also that conceding a few individuals might make fortunes by the slave trade, reopening it would operate such a general depreciation of the value of that species of property as to make the loss more than counterbalance the gain. In short, the World thinks the course proposed to be a parallel to that of a man who had been bitten by a dog suspected to be mad, and who should attempt to avert the danger by getting himself bitten by another dog unmistakably rabid.

The Charleston Mercury urges the South Carolinians in the army and navy of the United States to return home. At the raising of a Palmetto tree in Columbia, S. C., Friday, no national airs were played, but at the conclusion of the ceremonies the Marseillaise was performed. At Augusta, Ga., the same day, a "grand and enthusiastic" demonstration took place in honor of the suspension over the river of the Palmetto flag. A salute was fired, and the Marseillaise and various polkas were played by the band. No national airs were performed. In the South Carolina Legislature, Friday, the House appointed a Committee on Postal Affairs and passed a resolution directing the Military Committee to consider the best method of fortifying the exposed portions of the coast of South Carolina. A petition was received praying for the suspension of the laws providing for the collection of debts.

Special Court of Justices.

Thursday, Dec. 1. There was a special session of this Court to-day, to hear and try a complaint against Daniel Weaver, under the Common Nuisance Act. It will be remembered that we reported three sentences under this Act, in our report of the proceedings of Friday last, and now Daniel himself has come to the same judgment, of three months in the Providence Jail.

And after all to speak seriously, this is commendable; nay, more, it is of the highest benefit to all concerned. The State thus provides comfortable quarters for those whose pauperism is self-imposed, and at the same time receives the valuable return of labor for all the advances for their support and comfort. And they who can work and do not, and who not only contribute nothing, but who are a burden, are rescued from vice and suffering, and made to contribute to the general capital of the Commonwealth. This cleansing of the Augean stables in the purities of the city, and converting the waste and suffering into thrift and comfort, is highly creditable to the foreign, energy, economy, as well as humanity of our authorities, and is due, doubtless, especially to our worthy Mayor and Marshal. It may to some seem harsh at first view, to deprive any of our fellow citizens of liberty under a charge of vagrancy; but when they reflect that ere the cold blasts of winter shall soften into the genial breath of Spring, these persons would have to be placed in the house of refuge, a burden to themselves and to the city, and that they are now equally as well rescued from all the contingencies of poverty in our bleakest months, and their retirement modified by employment which invigorates their enervated bodies and is the greatest antidote to all the unpleasantness of confinement, we think such objections must acknowledge both the policy and humanity of such a provision; a provision which places in comfort and health those from whom even "He who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" does not prevent the natural consequences which He has ordained as the temporal punishment of His violated laws, as a just retribution of a vicious life, even in this world.

SAD BEREAVEMENT.—Our community will feel, deeply the loss of Mr. John B. Langley, who was removed by death yesterday afternoon. He was among the most valued of our citizens, and was cut down in the prime of life and in the midst of usefulness. The Artillery Company, of which he was an officer at the time of his decease, have lost an efficient member. His sympathy, in their affliction, of the entire community.

Mr. Langley took a severe cold, from exposure, at the alarm of fire proceeding from the ruins of Mr. Rodman's factory, three weeks ago last Saturday, which resulted in typhoid fever, baffling the utmost skill of his physicians.

The Gale of the 24th. The captains of vessels who were out in the terrific gale of Saturday and Sunday, 24th and 25th, represent it as the severest by far of any experienced for many years. It was so on Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, Lake Erie, and if we may judge by the number of disasters reported, it must have been so on Lake Ontario as well. Such was the force and height of the waves that the crew were obliged to cling to the rigging for safety, and it was certain death for them to lose their hold.

The loss of several lives is already reported as having occurred in this manner. Everything on deck, even to hawsers weighing tons, were swept overboard as so many shavings would have been. The man at the wheel was in all cases lashed to his post in order to enable him to retain his position. Bulwarks on each side were cut away in order to give the heavy seas a free channel of escape from the decks. The wild and the waves, however, were not the only dangers that threatened, for the weather was so piercingly cold that the vessels became in a short time a perfect glare of ice; the rigging was encased in it, the icebergs hung thick and long from the spars, and the decks were often covered with ice to the depth of six inches.

Of the many lives that have been lost and the large amount of property that has been destroyed, no inconsiderable portion is owing to the severe cold. We have reports of vessels which were wholly unmanageable because everything about them had frozen so stiff that they could not be controlled. The crews stood by and saw them drive upon the shore to certain destruction, without being able to avert their fate in the least. Many of them who did not lose their lives altogether have been so badly frozen that they will be maimed for life.

The Chinese Revolution.

The Rev. Mr. Bridgman, American Missionary in China, writes an extremely interesting letter upon the subject of the rebellion in that country. He says that this great movement, which early in the year seemed about to dissolve and die out, has suddenly appeared as a wonder in the midst of this mass of living dead. He had before him a manuscript of nearly one hundred pages in Chinese, and three proclamations from the insurgent chiefs which will attract general attention. The proclamations are addressed to the people of the whole empire, and are issued in the name of the "Seven Kings." They all exhibit, not a little of the spirit and principles of true Christianity. He intimates that the foreign Ambassadors know not what to do in regard to this internal commotion, and in conclusion speaks as follows of the present position of affairs: "At this moment the insurgent body is somewhat like the camp of Israel in its wanderings. Already it has overrun nearly or quite one-third of the eighteen provinces, and would seem, if we may judge from their proclamation, to be now in larger force and more active than ever before. It is turning the old empire upside down, and if it be of God must prosper. The pagan priests, throughout the land, are no more to be slaughtered. All their books, however, are to be burnt, and their temples converted into churches, colleges, and hospitals. Hung-jun purposes, moreover, the introduction of steamers, railroads, newspapers, and, in short, all modern improvement. These are some of the cheering lines of the picture. The dark lines are neither few nor faint; for in many doctrines and practices they are wrong, and need guides to teach them the way of life more perfectly. Polygamy is allowed, and they have no church organization. Several missionaries are now on the way to visit them, but how far Hung-Siutien and his adherents are anxious to learn and willing to be taught, time will show. Greatly do they need more light, and the earnest intercession of God's people."

Death of Thos. Waring.—We announce with regret, which a large portion of our business community will share, the sudden death of Thomas Waring, the faithful, efficient and esteemed Auditor of the South Carolina Rail Road Company. Mr. Waring was born in Newport, R. I., in 1805, graduated from the Brown University, Providence, R. I., in 1823, and arrived in Charleston in 1825, where he has ever since resided. He was for some time engaged actively in commercial pursuits from which he subsequently retired. In 1845 he succeeded Henry Ravenel as Auditor of the South Carolina Rail Road, in which position he remained until his death, which occurred on Thursday morning of apoplexy. He entered his office, in the John-street depot building, about the usual hour, and was about beginning his labors at his desk, when the fatal stroke was received.

Mr. Waring was exemplary in his methodical and orderly attention to his business, and his services in such a complicated establishment as a large rail road office can with difficulty be replaced by equal talents and habits. He was a diligent improver of his literary tastes and of his academic acquisitions in his leisure, and was specially devoted to the literature of the Latin and French languages. He leaves four children, who had previously lost their mother. His life throughout was marked by purity in action, and an elevated standard of morals, in beautiful accordance with the living faith in the Son of God, which the early professed and ever improved Charleston (S. C.) Courier, 23d will.

A religious persecution has broken out in Spain. A Protestant Spaniard has been arrested, and documents being found upon him implicating many of his countrymen as favoring the Protestant movement in that country; several of them have been arrested, and others have fled into the interior and to Gibraltar. The laws of Spain against Protestants are very severe, but have not lately been enforced.

BIRTH.

In this city, 3d inst., Mr. John B. Langley, aged about 34 years.

In Providence, Dec. 1st, Abby, widow of John Maxson, aged 67 years.

In this city on the 30th ult., Mrs. Eliza, widow of the late deacon Nathaniel Sweet, in the 77th year of her age.

Mrs. Sweet was extensively known, and universally esteemed, not for her deep and consistent piety, more than for that spirit of charity and kindness, which was sure to flow out from her heart, wherever misfortune or suffering were made known. For more than 55 years she has been a communicant of one of the Baptist Churches in this city; and for the last 30 years or more, the Second Church, every member of which she loved, as only a Christian can love. Forbearing, charitable and always ready to extenuate and explain, she was blessed very frequently as a peace-maker, many of whom having been benefited by her, in this respect, will remember the time and drop a tear as they peruse these lines. Deprived of consciousness at the very commencement of her final attack, we have no dying testimony to record; but how exceedingly more precious was her Christian life, she made the death of her last, and "in his last end, he like his." Confined much of the last years of her life by her infirmities, tested the grace of patience in her soul. Oh! how she sighed for the conference room, and yet how sweetly she resigned her will to God's will, was duly evidenced. Truly a saint has fallen, may we all follow her, as she followed Christ.

Cognac Brandy.

The infamous practice of adulterating Brandy having become so common that genuine articles (the exception) are of great value to those requiring it for medicinal purposes, that it should be of no doubt (purity and efficacy).

With a view to meeting the popular demand for a reliable Brandy in its natural state, free from alcoholic flavor and impurities, and fully acquainted with the fact that his often recommended Medical Brandy, as a sustaining stimulant, was a worthless remedy, we are now bottling and selling at reasonable rates, a Brandy of our own importation, from one of the most respectable houses in France, and known as "Bisquit's Genuine Cognac Brandy."

It is mild, delicate and frothy, and is designed to be always of uniform quality and character. Put up in pint and quart bottles, in cases containing two dozen pints and one dozen quarts, and is sold by all prominent druggists, grocers and town agents.

The above is also for sale in original packages, viz: Eighties and Quarter Cases.

SECESSION.

The short sighted way, let them secede. But the sound mind, they say, let them secede. Domestic State, take back the law, that gives a step back, by restoring the higher law, the personal liberty bill, so called, and then with a good face, we can ask the South, also to be in subjection to our common Ruler, the Constitution; Congress? but for us to consent, for them to secede, would be to consent to an evil, if a State seceded against our will, and if a State seceded, it surely, it cannot have a face to ask protection; (further) if we give them (as) consent to go, we can have them at our bankers; should they attempt to secede, with other powers, against our will, and to our harm; therefore, in not give them, any way, is the safe and right, and only true way, some short sighted, and of two little concern like some one proposing $2.00, for to be a Wide Awake, and busy marching; but one says they will be, against another campaign, or voting; But the spirit of our Government, replies in a good National American, Republican? we want, no such evil led monarchy; trained up sectionalism; I much approve of those kind Wide Awakes, who were voters; who rallied all spitting demonstration; that said, or by the way, secede; that's far enough in these shifting times; therefore I ask the sound mind, in politics to (secede) both the idea of giving them permit, to go out of the Union; Also of the boys with the tree that bare skin (quit) unless they immediately take back and restore damage, and reform; N. B. Who ever heard of Gods afflicting a people, with famine; When he was pleased with them and heart think of those who hated from Massachusetts to Kansas; Hog like (in a sense) and think how the true world, at a secession, near Boston, was to be settled, and they were to come clear from Missouri to Mead, to fill it up; Against the interests of the E. at, and crowd out the neighbors, (near) who by precise inheritance, to an extent principally felt as though they had the best right to it as like as not, a kind of neighborly quarrel would arise; only brush off the dust, and this is the true light; I move this state (Appl), the personal liberty bill, it was adopted in resistance of higher even Congress law, thus strutting, curvies first, then we can have a claim to help to others; A friend to America, in good faith, in righteousness, and peace, thus in directly so, F. W. S. of R. I.

P. S. As regards the government of heart and their are but two powers—God, and Satan the opposite, comparing political government in the case of B. one must be the steps goat, (guess and allow) true friends only.

I am of the opinion in either judge or lawyer's trying to smother a guilty case, and being principally they are partakers in the guilt of the crime. To true friends only.

MEDICINES

DR. ABBOTT'S CELEBRATED PILLS

THESE inestimable PILLS were discovered by him while practicing in the Hospital in Paris, under the immediate observation of the RENEWED RICO 10, of Paris, and ABBON, of London.

These Pills are invariably certain to regulate the Female System, and can be taken without hazard. A relief is warranted of the money returned. They are known by hundreds of females in this country, to be the only preparation ever discovered; that has proved invariably certain in cases of SUPPRESSIONS, IRREGULARITIES, &c. One trial will convince the most sceptical, and after will they be induced to take any other. Ladies who have often been deceived by purchasing Pills and "Nostrums" from

MALE AND FEMALE IMPOSTORS

Under the pretence of offering a "cure," medicines which in nineteen cases out of twenty, have an injurious effect upon the system, without producing the desired result or any sort of it, should shun these "Bipods," and use those but the genuine.

The efficacy of which, has been tested in hundreds of cases, and NEVER FAILED to effect a speedy cure without any bad result. The Pills are the result of an extensive practice, and not discovered by accident. To subvert their virtue, would not add to their merit. We would only say, try them, and they will prove to be what they are represented.

One by letter to all parts of the country. Sold only at Dr. ABBOTT'S Dispensary, No. 13 North Main Street, Providence, R. I.

N. B.—Ladies should be careful to ascertain whether pregnancy is the cause of the stoppage, if so, the Pills should not be taken, for they would cause them a miscarriage. Price $6.00. Full directions accompany each box. The Doctor can be consulted on all Female Complaints.
